Volunteer and art-making opportunities for all ages (no expertise needed)

Be a part of ArtSeed's 2019 Keystone Project! The centerpiece of our recent annual exhibition involved launching two large collaborative canvases that juxtapose oil portraits of Congresswomen with their less fortunate counterparts (missing or murdered women whose cases have finally been investigated). The portraits in this ongoing project are being painted by a diverse group (from youngsters and other beginners to professional artists) of all ages. In just 30 minutes, with self-guided instructions (or free coaching if requested), everyone can participate in this continuing adventure. The project will make its tour from the Tides Gallery in the Presidio to Hunters Point Shipyard Studios, ArtSeed's Labyrinth Studios in the Inner Richmond, and in some other places where we teach art. See schedule below.

Come this weekend and save these dates!
